State Library Foundation Debuts Quarterly Magazine

The Indiana State Library Foundation recently published and distributed the inaugural edition of its official magazine, Cornerstone.

The quarterly publication is designed to highlight the State Library's rare collections, public services, statewide programs, and relevant library news from across the state. Specifically, the Foundation hopes to use Cornerstone as a catalyst and reference point to carry out its mission to serve citizens of Indiana through the support, enhancement and promotion of activities of the Indiana State Library as well as aid in the development of library related programs benefiting libraries throughout the state and the library profession.

The Spring 2013 issue of Cornerstone highlights the progress of both the Indiana Bicentennial Commission and the Indiana Historic Newspaper Digitization Project. The magazine also takes focus on rare and endangered State Library collections as well as recent honors for State Library collections and staff.

Grants Available for Libraries Focused on College Readiness

KnowHow2GO Indiana campaign encourages you to apply for 2013 College Readiness Grants by this Friday, May 31. Any programming reaching youth this summer via traditional schools, summer camps, libraries, internships, or nonprofit organizations are eligible. The $1,000 grant can be put toward additional programming for youth throughout the upcoming year. Submissions will be judged on alignment with KnowHow2GO Indiana goals and activities, the amount and depth of age-appropriate career and college preparation activities planned for the summer, and verifiable results. Multimedia elements in entries are encouraged.

Sponsored by Learn More Indiana, KnowHow2GO Indiana is all about preparing for the future with practical (and fun) experiences that help students learn about careers, explore college options and stay engaged in learning all summer long. This year, the online portal features printer-friendly worksheets and other resources that libraries can use with students in grades K-12.
