'Indiana History of Brewing' fundraiser set for June 10 at Indiana State Library

The Indiana State Library Foundation and Sun King Brewery are pleased to announce "Indiana History of Brewing," a look at the storied history of beer production in the Hoosier state. The event will take place on Friday, June 10 from 4-7 p.m. in the Great Hall of the Indiana State Library in downtown Indianapolis.

Since the mid-1800s, Hoosier contributions to brewing have significantly impacted the industry. The Indiana State Library Foundation invites the community to celebrate the state's robust brewing history and to learn how the Indianapolis Brewing Company earned worldwide recognition in places like Paris and Liège, Belgium with their European-influenced beers.

Registration for "Indiana History of Brewing" is $20 per person and includes a beer tasting, free beer glass for the first 100 RSVPs received, catered appetizers, guided library tours and a question and answer session with Sun King co-founder Clay Robinson.

Proceeds will fund the Indiana State Library Foundation. The foundation supports the Indiana State Library in fulfilling its

InfoExpress renewal submissions now being accepted

InfoExpress renewal submissions are now being accepted for the 2022-23 service year. This year's renewal deadline is June 1, but participants will have until July 31 to submit payment.

For the 2022-23 service year, the subsidized annual subscription cost to libraries for one day of service per week will be $323. This subsidy is limited to one library per system. Branches are not eligible for this subsidy, nor are corporate libraries or public libraries not meeting standards. The cost for non-subsidized libraries is $933 per service day annually. See the current rates here.

A 2% late surcharge will be added to payments postmarked after Sunday, July 31. Service will be suspended effective Monday, Aug. 1 if the full payment is not submitted by July 31. The 2022-23 service year runs from July 1, 2022 through June 30, 2023.

Click here to sign in and renew. Renewals must be submitted before June 1 to ensure continuation of service.

School libraries are on a modified timeline to accommodate the academic calendar. School renewal requests should be submitted by Sept. 1, and payment is due by Sept. 30 to avoid the suspension of service as of Oct. 1 and a 2% surcharge.

Please contact the InfoExpress coordinator via email or at 800-451-6028 with any questions.

Welcome to the Government Information Minute. Every other week, government information librarians at the Indiana State Library cover current resources on governmental data at the state, national and international levels, all to keep the public well-informed. Follow the Indiana State Data Center on Facebook and Twitter and feel free to leave comments and suggestions.

Deadline to register for GID22 approaching

The deadline to register to attend Government Information Day 2022 is Monday, May 16. GID22 is a free one-day in person conference created to improve government information literacy and promote government resources at the state and federal levels. This year's theme is "Building Connections. Discovering .GOV." The conference features three concurrent sessions, along with the keynote address delivered by the director of the Government Publishing Office, Hugh Halpern. GID22 will be held at the Indiana State Library.

Indiana public librarians will have the opportunity to earn up to four LEUs, and up to three TLEUs. Registered attendees will receive an LEU form that they will need to complete in order to receive their certificates. The conference program is available to view for session details. The Government Information Day conference is Indiana's largest gathering of librarians all present to learn about government resources. The collaborative conference is open to all people interested in government information, government documents and government data. Visit Indiana Federal Documents for all conference details or email federal documents coordinator Brent Abercrombie with any questions or concerns.

the Indiana State Library's INSPIRE collection of databases, has announced a new slate of webinars set to begin in August.

TeachingBooks and Book Connections give access to a database of resources for children's and young adult books and their authors and illustrators. Use either to search titles, authors and illustrators and to find resources to engage readers. The resource collection includes short movies, audio book readings, book discussion guides and more.

Book Connections and TeachingBooks utilize the same program, infrastructure and content, and are run by the same people. The difference is the interface for the audience. TeachingBooks is designed to serve the pre-K to 12th grade school communities and their families, as well as pre-service educators in colleges and universities. Book Connections is a separate interface to meet the needs of public libraries and their communities.

The webinars are as follows:

"All Aboard with TeachingBooks" on Thursday, Aug. 11 at 1 p.m. Central/2 p.m. Eastern.

"TeachingBooks Updates and New Features" on Thursday, Sept. 15 at 1 p.m. Central/2 p.m. Eastern.

"Community Partnerships with TeachingBooks" on Thursday, Sept. 29 at 1 p.m. Central/2 p.m. Eastern.

"Early Childhood Resources from TeachingBooks" on Thursday, Oct. 13 at 1 p.m. Central/2 p.m. Eastern.

"Book Clubs and Reading Circles with TeachingBooks" on Thursday, Nov. 17 at 1 p.m. Central/2 p.m. Eastern.

"Engage Readers with Graphic Novels and TeachingBooks Resources" on Thursday, Dec. 15 at 1 p.m. Central/2 p.m. Eastern.

Please note that these 20-minute webinars are not eligible for LEUs, but still may be helpful to those who use TeachingBooks or Book Connections.

administered by the Indiana State Library. The planning grant will enable PALNI to identify ways of expanding current infrastructure to support open bibliographic data management tools, which library staff use to manage and share collections. The project aims to significantly enhance financial sustainability and access to information, allowing libraries to further deliver on their critical role in student success.

"We are excited and grateful to receive this grant, which will allow us to explore new options in bibliographic data management," said Kirsten Leonard, executive director of PALNI. "The ultimate drivers for the initiative are access and affordability - we hope to leverage existing projects and infrastructure to support collaboration amongst libraries broadly and in Indiana to meet changing needs and priorities. This project will identify emerging opportunities in technology to reduce costs, minimize duplication efforts and provide granularity in services - all of which will benefit libraries and their stakeholders."

PALNI is currently working with Indiana libraries and national and international library groups to identify needs and build a community that can govern and sustain a shared bibliographic data management service. This process includes exploring services provided by other countries and open record sources like the Library of Congress. In addition, the project comprises reviewing metadata usage rights to understand better the permissions and limitations for the open sharing of metadata.

"This innovative and collaborative project will provide libraries with the flexibility to better serve their users and fully leverage their resources," said Jacob Speer, State Librarian for Indiana.

PALNI will work with the library community to build a wireframe for a low-cost, open system that facilitates the exchange of library-created bibliographic information. In addition, the project will seek to improve the interoperability of other open-source services that rely on bibliographic data, such as holdings, interlibrary loans and collection analysis.
