Describe the present and original (if known) physical appearance

The Dr. Samuel Vaughn Jump House is an outstanding example of the Greek Revival architecture. Situated at the top of a small elevation in a shady rural setting, the house dominates the lot from which it overlooks the surrounding property. The house's simple frame construction and generous fenestration lend an air of stately elegance to the house.

In classic Greek Revival style, the structure has a rectangular two-story plan. The long north elevation serves as the main facade. Here, Greek Revival order and detailing are very much in evidence. The front entrance, at the center of the facade, is recessed. The entry is surrounded by molded architrave trim, and narrow molded pilasters. The entrance to the house is a single door, whose lower half features two molded panels. The upper half of the door is a large single light. Surrounding the door are sidelights and a transom. The sidelights are distinctive, as they are very tall and narrow, extending above the door on either side of the transom. The tops of the sidelights are rounded. Two brackets support the ceiling of the small porch.

The house, particularly the main facade, features symmetrical window placement. Four windows, two on each side of the main entrance, are on the first story. Second story windows are placed directly above those on the first story, with a fifth window centered over the main entrance. All windows are the same size, 2 1/2 feet by 7 feet, and they are double-hung, with six lights in each section. The windows all feature the same ornamentation, a molded entablature centered above each window. The shutters have been painted a dark color to contrast with the white siding.

The roof is a low hipped roof of modern shingles. There are two offset chimneys, one on the right side of the roof and the other on the left. Each chimney displays two projecting brick courses around the top. At the peak of the roof, there is a widow's walk whose balustrade has been removed.

Along the east facade, the window style and arrangement of the main facade is continued. A second entrance, also recessed and similar in style to that of the main entrance, is located at the south end of this facade.

On the south elevation there is a small, one story wing, which was built at an earlier date than the main portion of the house. It is approximately 28' x 29', and now serves as a summer kitchen. Beneath the summer kitchen is a cellar lined with field stone. East of the summer kitchen a side porch, 25' x 6', has been glassed in.

In the interior, the most prominent feature is a carved winding staircase which leads all the way up to the widow's walk on the roof. The newel post and railings are black walnut. A unique feature of this staircase is the decorative scroll carvings on the edge of the stairway.

The interior of the house features a generous amount of woodwork. Most of the floors throughout the house are of oak. The extensive woodwork on the second floor has been painted to replicate wood grain.

Originally, there were three fireplaces in the house, one in the library, the northwest bedroom, and the living room. The library fireplace is the only one that remains in working order.

In the 1960's, new cedar siding replaced the old wood siding which was badly deteriorated. The new siding has been painted white and is a little larger in its dimensions than the original. In 1979, the shutters were repainted. The only other alterations to the structure are the removal of the balustrade from the widow's walk, and the removal of the porticos, which had molded columns and other Greek Revival detailing, from the main and east entrances. Except for these alterations, the house stands much as it did when constructed, and remains in an excellent state of preservation.

Statement of Significance (in one paragraph)

The Dr. Samuel Vaughn Jump House is significant for its Greek Revival architecture and for its association with Dr. Samuel Vaughn Jump, the first resident physician in Delaware County.

The house, situated on a slight elevation, is an impressive example of classic Greek Revival styling. Its clean, simple lines, symmetrical window arrangement, low hip roof, and Greek Revival detailing, make it one of the finest examples of such architecture in Delaware County.

Dr. Samuel V. Jump had a distinguished medical career. Jump began his study of medicine under Dr. John Pritchett, of Centerville, Indiana. He then attended medical lectures at the Ohio Medical College in Cincinnati in 1847.

Jump opened his own medical practice in New Burlington in 1848, and became the first resident physician in Delaware County. In that same year, he married Letitia K. Allen, and built the one-story rear portion of the present house. Four years later, in 1852, Jump was appointed the first physician of the Delaware County poor farm. In 1855, the impressive two-story portion of the house was completed, an obvious sign of Jump's success in establishing his private medical practice.

In 1858, after ten years of medical practice, Jump attended another series of lectures at the Ohio Medical College and graduated. He then returned to New Burlington to resume the practice of medicine.

In 1865, Jump was elected the first president of the Delaware-Blackford County Medical Society. He continued to serve on the board for most of his life. In 1880 he was appointed as a representative to the Medical Society of Indiana.

In addition to his medical practice, Jump was also active in public life. He was elected to the State Legislature in 1869, and was later appointed Postmaster of New Burlington, as well.

The house remains in an excellent state of preservation.
