I said nearly these exact words to a friend today. Then she sent me this video.

I didn't even recognize his name yesterday. But I was aware of the foundation he ran and sure as hell had heard all of his hateful talking points.

That's the point. His abuse and hatred are far bigger than he was. (Maybe we found the smallest man who ever lived? 😊)

While this dude perpetuated the idea that empathy is bad, I'll still make sure to have some for his wife and children. While also knowing all too well that sometimes children are better off without an abusive parent around.
