

E-RECORDING TECHNOLOGY & E-COURIES

Howard County began accepting e-recorded documents in 2010. This technology streamlines the process of recording for both the submitter and the County Recorder's office. E-recording is a secure process and will save your institution time and money. No need for postage, envelopes, letterhead or waiting on a check to be written and the original document never leaves your office.

Once we determine the document is acceptable, we will record it and the processed document will be electronically routed back to the submitter. Land conveyance documents are routed electronically to the Assessor, Auditor and back to the Recorder's office for final processing. If there is a problem and we cannot record the document, submitters will receive notification in most cases within minutes, not days.

Once you have selected your e-courier and begin submitting, your documents are processed and the associated recording fees are deposited into our account at the conclusion of each business day by the e-courier.

Below is a list of the current e-couriers that are doing business with Howard County, Indiana. Each courier has their own specific fee structure which is negotiated directly with their potential customers.
