adjustment and, if needed, a recoupment is set up in the statewide child support system.

1. Enrollment Form Permission to Recoup

Effective April, 2019, the official state form for enrolling in Title IV-D child support services includes the following question: "I agree that if I am overpaid, the state may recoup the amount of the overpayment from future child support payments owed to me. Yes No".⁵ A participant may provide blanket consent for recoupment of overpayments from future child support by indicating "yes" to the question on the enrollment form.⁶ If such consent is documented, there is no requirement that subsequent permission be provided by a participant to recoup from current support payments.

If the enrollee has answered "no" to the question, CSB or INSCCU may still proceed with requesting permission on an as needed basis.

2. Recoupment Letters and Affirmative or Presumed Consent

If a recoupment is needed and the participant has not provided permission to recoup or has denied blanket permission to recoup during completion of the enrollment form, CSB or INSCCU shall send up to three (3) letters, not less than 30 days apart, to the participant containing the following information:

- a. That a child support payment was disbursed in error to the participant;
- b. The amount of the payments and the dates the payments were disbursed;
- c. The address of where the participant should send the response to the notice;
- d. The participant has 15 days from the date of the notice to respond in writing to one (1) of the following options:⁷
 - i. Returning the check if not yet cashed;
 - ii. Sending a personal check or money order to cover the amount received in error; or
 - iii. In the case of an obligee, giving permission to deduct 10% of future child support payments and 100% of past-due child support payments until the amount received in error is paid in full.

The third notice to the participant also includes a statement that the participant's failure to respond will result in presumed consent to the recoupment.⁸ This presumed consent allows CSB or INSCCU to recoup the overpayment by the withholding of subsequent child support payments or future federal and State tax refunds as well as any other refunds from CSB up to the total amount of the overpayment disbursed to the participant.⁹

Recoupments will not be withheld from subsequent child support payments until:

- a. Receiving written consent from the participant;¹⁰ or
- b. Presumed consent based on the participant's failure to timely respond to the third notice.¹¹
