

	INDIANA DEPARTMENT OF CHILD SERVICES TITLE IV-D POLICY MANUAL
	Chapter 17: Case Closure	Effective Date: 12/08/2021
	Section 30: Initiating State Closed Case (CRSP)	Version: 1.1 Revision Date: 12/08/2021

BACKGROUND

Closing a case when the initiating State has closed its case is a manual closure process, which means the statewide child support system does not automatically recognize the case closure criteria, but the Title IV-D Prosecutor’s Office knows certain facts that make the case eligible for case closure.

The manual case closure reasons do not require an intent to close notice be sent to the custodial party (CP) or other tribunal. When the Title IV-D Prosecutor’s Office enters the case closure reason in the statewide child support system, the case is immediately closed to Title IV-D services.

Closing the case to Title IV-D services does not affect the validity or status of a court order.

POLICY

The Title IV-D Prosecutor’s Office may close an intergovernmental case when the initiating tribunal has notified the Title IV-D Prosecutor’s Office that the tribunal has closed its case.¹

PROCEDURE

The Title IV-D Prosecutor’s Office shall make notes in the statewide child support system documenting the other State’s name and closure request.² Additionally, if the request was sent in any manner other than through interface with the statewide child support system, the Title IV-D Prosecutor’s Office shall place a copy of the other State’s request to close the case in the paper or electronic case file.³

If there are State owed arrears due to the CP receiving Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) in Indiana, the Title IV-D Prosecutor’s Office should contact their Child Support Bureau Field Consultant for assistance in determining the course of action for those arrears.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

1. Q. If the initiating State is closing their case and has asked Indiana to close its case, can the case be closed for this case closure reason?
 - A. If it is not an Indiana order, yes, the case may be closed using this case closure reason. The Title IV-D Prosecutor's Office should close current child support, zero out the subaccounts, and terminate any income withholding orders.

If it is an Indiana order, the Title IV-D Prosecutor's Office changes the interstate field in the statewide child support system to NA and leaves the case status as open. If the CP has never applied for Title IV-D services directly in Indiana, the Title IV-D Prosecutor's Office changes the case type to non-Title IV-D (NIVD).
