

Tom Fite – Indiana Department of Financial Institutions

Tom was named Director of the Department of Financial Institutions early in 2016. As a proponent of servant leadership, Tom is excited and energized in this role to assist with the fulfillment of the Department's mission. Over most of the past two decades, Tom has held a number of positions with the Department including 15 years of field examination and regional supervision experience prior to being named the Deputy Director of the Depository Division in 2013. With exemplary assistance from his coworkers, Tom is refining the regulatory process in an effort to improve efficiencies, while also promoting early recognition of both industry and institutional specific risks. Both nationally and at home in Indiana, Tom promotes the importance of sound regulatory principles. Tom earned an undergraduate degree from Ball State University and a master's degree in business administration from Indiana Wesleyan University. Tom and his wife of 16 years are raising their three children in Brownsburg, Indiana.
