Course Description:

In this course, students will embark on an exciting journey through time, exploring the art and artifacts of world cultures. Students will engage in meaningful, sequential learning experiences that blend art history, criticism, aesthetics, and hands-on studio production. Through research and critical thinking, students will uncover how art reflects and influences social, political, economic, technological, environmental, and historical developments. Students will learn to analyze and interpret artworks, make informed judgments about the nature of art, and connect what they learn to other disciplines. Throughout the course, students will also enhance literacy and presentation skills, explore art museums and galleries, and discover the many career paths connected to the visual arts. Get ready to see the world through the lens of art!
