Honoring Hoosier Heroes: The Indiana Veterans Memorial Cemetery

Nestled in the hills of Madison, Indiana, the Indiana Veterans Memorial Cemetery stands as a profound tribute to the brave men and women who have served our nation. Opened in 1999, the state veterans cemetery serves as a final resting place for eligible veterans and their families, embodying gratitude for their service and sacrifice. The cemetery's beautifully maintained grounds are rows of pristine white headstones aligned in perfect formation—a visual reminder of the discipline and honor that defined the lives interred here. As of 2025, it is the final home to over 3,200 veterans from conflicts spanning World War II to the present day, including Korea, Vietnam, and recent operations in Iraq and Afghanistan.

The cemetery offers both traditional in-ground burials and columbarium niches for cremated remains, ensuring options that respect personal and family wishes. The administration building features a committal shelter for services, and the grounds include memorials and flag displays that evoke a sense of solemn pride. (Continued on next page)

Beyond burials, the Indiana Veterans Memorial Cemetery is a space for healing. Families visit to pay respects, communities gather for Memorial Day and Veterans Day observances, and the quiet beauty of the grounds offers solace amid grief. The cemetery also participates in other cherished traditions like Wreaths Across America, where volunteers place evergreen wreaths on headstones each December, speaking the names of the fallen aloud to "Remember, Honor, and Teach." Last year alone 1,970 wreaths were laid at the cemetery.

In a state rich with military history—from the Indiana War Memorial in Indianapolis to national sites like Marion National Cemetery—this Madison gem provides a personal, local haven to honor their loved ones.

Thank you to our veterans—past, present, and future. Your legacy lives on.

Wreaths Across America is a national nonprofit organization dedicated to honoring veterans by remembering the fallen, honoring those who serve, and teaching future generations the value of freedom. Founded in 2007 after Maine businessman Morrill Worcester began placing wreaths at Arlington National Cemetery in 1992, the program has grown into a nationwide movement. Each December, volunteers across all 50 states and abroad participate in National Wreaths Across America Day by laying wreaths on veterans' graves at more than 5,200 locations. Beyond the annual event, the organization runs year-round initiatives such as Wreaths Across America Radio, educational programs for youth, and a traveling Mobile Education Exhibit to share its mission Wreaths Across America. Together, these efforts ensure that the service and sacrifice of America's veterans are never forgotten.

County Veteran Service Officer (CVSO) Spotlight

Katie Jordan-Allen County

From the front lines of Afghanistan to the front desk of a County Veteran Service Office, one local advocate has turned her military experience into a mission of service for others. After beginning her service in the Florida National Guard, Katie Jordan quickly transitioned to active duty with the U.S. Army, deploying to Afghanistan in 2011 with the 159th Aviation Brigade.

After the military and with a degree in Sociology and Social Work, she discovered her calling after meeting a County Veteran Service Officer. "That's the job I want," she said—and she's been serving veterans ever since. To add, having experienced the challenges of military transition firsthand, she's passionate about guiding others through it. "I want veterans to know what's available to them—especially here in Indiana." One of her most memorable moments was helping a single mother avoid homelessness through a successful disability claim. "She came back just to thank me and give me a hug. That's why I do this."

Her office works closely with local veteran organizations to connect veterans with resources that match their needs and interests. "We're not the VA—we're advocates. We help make the process clearer and more personal."

Her advice? "Reach out. Every state and county offers different benefits—you might be missing out."

What keeps her going? "Knowing I'm making a difference in a veteran's tomorrow."

Indiana Department of Veterans Affairs Operations Director Bryan Schmidt

This month we're featuring the IDVA Operations Director, Bryan Schmidt, a Marine Corps veteran who brings the same high-energy to IDVA that he brings to mile 90 of a 100-mile trail race (yes, you read that right)...100 miles on purpose!

Bryan served in Security Forces in Southwest Asia and later deployed as an infantry squad leader. Since trading in his cammies for khakis, he's been on a mission for Hoosier veterans: from County Veterans Service Officer → to District Service Officer → to Health & Wellness Director → and now, the guy who keeps the whole operation running (literally and figuratively).

He and his wife Melissa have been married 13 years, and while they don't have kids, they do have one very pampered dog named Niko, who may or may not believe he's the boss. Every year, they check off a new country and a new national park—because apparently “relaxing” vacations are for other people. During COVID, they even hit every Indiana state park. Because of course they did. Bryan used to run marathons and Ironman races, but eventually decided 26.2 miles just wasn't enough suffering. Now he runs 100-mile ultramarathons for fun. We assume he's powered by grit, electrolytes, and a questionable amount of trail mix.

Thanks for your service, Bryan—both overseas and right here at home. Semper Fi!
