Remembering Bob Pedigo

The Indiana Veteran community mourns the loss of Robert “Bob” Edward Pedigo, a World War II hero and beloved family man, who passed away on October 22, 2024, at the age of 101. Born in Indianapolis, Bob led a remarkable life that spanned over a century, leaving a lasting impact on his family, friends, and the nation he served.

A proud veteran, Bob served as a nose gunner and chief armorer on the B-24 Liberator bomber, Silent Yokum, during World War II. He completed 30 air combat missions over France and Germany, and on D-Day, June 6, 1944, he and his crew were the first to be called out on a critical mission to St. Laurent, France.

This year, on June 6, Bob returned to Normandy for the 80th anniversary of the D-Day landings, where he was honored with the French Legion of Honour, France's highest military award, by President Emmanuel Macron. It was a deeply moving journey, and his first time stepping foot in France—a place he helped to liberate 80 years prior.

A revered figure in Indiana, Bob was inducted into the Indiana Military Hall of Fame in 2023. His service also included working on the top-secret Norden bombsights, a unique contribution that earned him a commemorative plaque in the Indiana War Memorial, where an actual bombsight remains on display.

Bob’s legacy as a veteran, family man, and friend to many will endure.
