^aIn accordance with IDEM's rotating basin monitoring strategy, probabilistic monitoring is conducted in one major river basin each year so that comprehensive monitoring and assessments can be completed for the entire state

^bAll impairments identified through IDEM's rotating basin assessments are placed on Indiana's draft 303(d) List of Impaired Waters are made available for 90-day public comment period prior to submission of the 303(d) list to U.S. EPA. Because basin assessments made during a listing year occur after the draft 303(d) list is published for public comment, any impairments identified are held for the next listing cycle in order to ensure the public an opportunity for review and comment. Therefore, assessments made during a listing year are reported in the Integrated Report and placed on the draft 303(d) List of Impaired Waters during the next scheduled reporting cycle.
