Watershed Activity Event

The Little Calumet River Awareness Day: Water Quality Education and Outdoor Recreation Event was held at Indiana University Northwest on Saturday, October 13, 2007. The event took place at the North Parking Lot -33rd and Broadway in Gary, Indiana.

Advertisement for the awareness day was conducted via the flyer included in this appendix. A perception survey was handed out at the awareness day to the public participants to gather knowledge from the public. This survey was also conducted in an Indiana University Northwest Environmental Engineering class. A blank copy of this survey can be found after the advertisement flyer with the completed surveys located in the back of the appendix. The summarized results of the survey can also be found in this appendix.

The sign-in sheet from the awareness day is included along with the testing results from the day. Joe Exl conducted chemical monitoring, biological monitoring, and a citizen's qualitative habitat evaluation form. Other events taking place that day included a river walk which included a worksheet that listed native plants that could be found by participants.

As part of the Little Calumet River Awareness Day a public handout was given to participants that listed ways in which they could help the water quality by changing simple tasks around the house. This handout is also included in this appendix.

LITTLE CALUMET RIVER AWARENESS DAY

WATER QUALITY EDUCATION AND OUTDOOR RECREATION EVENT!

DATE:	Saturday, October 13, 2007
TIME:	Noon – 4:00 p.m.
LOCATION:	Indiana University Northwest (IUN) North Parking Lot – 33rd and Broadway, Gary, In. (Savannah Center (IUN) Room 203/204 -If Raining)

The Public is invited to participate in fun learning activities

- Nature Walks Led by a Naturalist
- Inter-Active Environmental Learning – Explore How Pollution Travels to our Waterways
- Guided Bike Tours on the Little Calumet River Levee Trail (Bring your Bikes)
- Riverwatch Water Quality Testing

HELP PLAN FOR THE FUTURE – The Gary Storm Water Management District has received a grant from the Indiana Department of Environmental Management to develop a Watershed Management Plan for the Western Branch of the Little Calumet River flowing through Gary, Hammond, Munster, Highland, Griffith, Lake Station, Hobart, and Portage. Your input is important. Please fill out the resident survey on the back of this leaflet and return by mail or bring to the River Awareness Day. Thank you. For more information contact:

Yellow highlight represents the most popular response for each question.

When asked the question: “Regarding the river my biggest concerns are:” the following responses were received.

- IDEM has failed to finish its studies on mercury and other pollutants in the river. I believe IDEM has its interests in protecting industry not the environment. $1.5 million study is not complete and not a priority to IDEM.
- US Steel dumping toxins, etc.
- Sewage runoff into Lake Michigan during periods of high rainfall through the Burns waterway.
- Where are the bike trails in the Black Oak area?
- Flooding in Black Oak
- Fishing and Swimming
- Flooding
- Flooding, fishing, recreation, safety
- Pollution
- Clean it up, make sure it’s a healthy ecosystem for animals and people.
- Cleanliness
- Water pollution
- Where is the river?
- Not being clean
- The dangerous effects of the overall scenario of these things.
- Contaminants
- I don’t know where it is.
- Can it be effectively used for the community without any consequences?
- Don’t care. Sorry.

What are "native" plants?

Native plants are those that evolved naturally in North America. More specifically, native plants in a particular area, like Indiana, are those that were growing naturally in the area before humans introduced plants from distant places.

Can you find these plants?

- Showy Sunflower

- New England Aster

- White Health Aster

- Blue Vervain

- Common Milkweed

- Evening Primrose

- Fall Panic Grass

- Giant foxtail

- Cattail

- Giant Reed (Phragmites)

- Big Blue Stem

- Goldenrod

- Yellow Coneflower

- Boneset

What is a wetland?

Wetlands are areas where water covers the soil, or is present either at or near the surface of the soil all year or for varying periods of time during the year. Wetland areas are defined/outlined in the landscape according to three primary criteria: vegetation, soil, and hydrology. Wetlands play an important part in filtering pollutants from water, preventing flooding, and providing homes for wildlife.

What is a CSO?

In a combined sewer system both rainwater runoff and sanitary waste which flows from homes and businesses, are transported in one pipe, to the sewage treatment plant. During heavy rainfalls or sudden snowmelt, the extra flow of water in the sewer system may exceed the capacity of either the pipe or the treatment facility. As a result, part of the combined wastewater flow (carrying bacteria and other pollutants from untreated sewage) may be diverted directly into the Little Calumet River. These events are known as combined sewer overflows or CSO's.

What is a stream buffer?

A natural vegetative boundary between the stream and existing development or farming to help protect the stream by filtering pollutants, providing flood control, preventing streambank erosion, keeping stream waters cool, and providing room for natural movement of the stream channel.

Do you see any of these animals or evidence of animals around?

- Blue heron
- Ducks
- Hawks
- Song birds
- Snakes
- Raccoons
- Muskrats
- Ground hogs
- Fox
- Coyotes
- Mink
- Deer
- Opossum
- Beaver
- Turtles

We Need Your HELP...

Homes can be a leading source of pollution

Environmental ethics are easy

Learn about what you can do

Participate in your quality of life

A series of small acts can bring big change!

Things to Do Around Your House:

- ✓ Use Phosphorus-free lawn fertilizers
- ✓ Fertilize less – first check soils nutrient levels
- ✓ Pick up pet wastes regularly
- ✓ Keep lawn clippings out of streets and waterways
- ✓ Have your septic tank pumped out
- ✓ Monitor and maintain your septic drainfield
- ✓ Keep household wastes out of storm sewers
- ✓ Collect stormwater from gutters to use in gardens
- ✓ Create flower gardens at the base of downspouts
- ✓ Cover bare ground with plantings
- ✓ Use straw bales or silt fence when doing construction or major landscaping projects
- ✓ Plant beds of native flowers or trees
- ✓ Use Phosphorus-free dishwasher detergent
- ✓ Talk to your neighbors about what you are doing
- ✓ Conserve water use in and around your home.
Don't leave faucets or hoses running unnecessarily.

What's Being Done to HELP the Little Calumet River?

A diverse group of local professionals and volunteers is working to develop an approach to improve water quality in the Little Calumet River. The project includes evaluating the existing condition of the river by looking at water samples, vegetation, current land uses, stormwater discharges, and discussing river issues with local citizens and government officials. The pollutant of greatest concern in the river is bacteria, more specifically E. coli.

Common household pollutants such as nutrients like phosphorus and nitrogen are also causing the river to experience algal blooms and low oxygen conditions.

A Watershed Management Plan is being written to help develop ideas to remove pollutants from storm water entering the river and find ways to implement these ideas in each of the communities in the watershed draining to the river. This effort may ultimately lead to the formation of an organization that crosses political boundaries to improve, preserve, and protect the river and the natural areas surrounding it.
