

Madison Closes State Revolving Fund Loan

State makes it possible for the City of Madison to make needed wastewater system improvements.

INDIANAPOLIS, October 2015—The City of Madison closed a low-interest loan, in the amount of $3,007,753, through the Indiana Finance Authority's Clean Water State Revolving Fund (CWSRF) Loan Program to finance needed improvements to Madison State Hospital's collection system.

Construction of upgrades and improvements to the Madison Wastewater Treatment System were financed by the CWSRF. The CWSRF program is administered by the Indiana Finance Authority with joint funding from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the Indiana State Revolving Fund Loan Program. This project will separate the storm drainage system around the Madison State Hospital from the sanitary sewers, correct inflow and infiltration defects in the sanitary system and reduce the quantity of wastewater flow being treated by the City of Madison from the Madison State Hospital Complex sewer collection system. The project will provide water quality and health benefits by reducing combined sewer overflow events to the Ohio River, Crooked Creek and Deans Branch thereby improving the environment for community residents and businesses in Madison.

CWSRF programs operate around the country to provide states and communities the resources necessary to maintain and improve the infrastructure that protects our valuable water resources nationwide. Communities can get more information about obtaining an SRF loan by contacting Bill Harkins at (317) 234-4862, wharkins@ifa.in.gov, or by visiting www.srf.in.gov.