Describe the conflict of interest:

I teach a contracts course in the paralegal studies program at Indiana University (IU) - Indianapolis. As a public institution, it is possible the Office of Inspector General (OIG) could receive a complaint or allegation of wrongdoing involving IU, its employees or its affiliates. As Chief of Staff and Chief Legal Counsel for the OIG, I currently review complaints and assist with legal action resulting from OIG investigations. I also make recommendations to the Inspector General on how to close investigations.

Describe the screen established by your ethics officer: (Attach additional pages as needed.)
If the OIG receives a complaint or allegation of wrongdoing involving IU, its employees or its affiliates, I will not be involved with the screening or evaluation of the complaint. I also will have no involvement in any resulting investigations, and I will not be involved in any decisions regarding the disposition of the case. The attorney assigned to any case involving IU will report directly to the Inspector General on the case. The Inspector General will make any final decisions regarding any complaint, investigation or case involving IU, including any decisions involving final disposition of such a case.

David, Regan and Nathan –

Please find the completed and signed Ethics Disclosure Statement for Conflicts of Interests – Decisions and Votes. This statement discloses my outside employment with IU-Indianapolis, where I am teaching a contracts course. It is very similar to past disclosure statements I have filed, but it updates the school's name and removes reference to teaching during the spring semester (as I will be teaching this fall). It also includes our agency's screen to ensure I do not participate in any decisions or votes or matters related to decisions or votes involving IU, its employees or affiliates.

I asked David to sign off as the Ethics Officer because I serve as the OIG Ethics Officer, and I did not want to sign off on my own disclosure or screen.

If you have any questions regarding this statement or screen, please let me know.

Thank you,

Tiffany
