At its recent general membership meeting, members of the Indiana Prosecuting Attorneys Council approved Christopher Gaal, Monroe County Prosecutor, to serve as its Chairman for 2012-2013. Jarrod Holtsclaw, Greene County Prosecutor, was appointed to serve as the organization's Vice-Chairman, and Dustin Houchin, Washington County Prosecutor, was appointed to serve as the Secretary/Treasurer.

Others appointed to serve on the IPAC Board of Directors include the Council's immediate past President, Todd Meyer, Boone County Prosecutor; Terry Curry, Marion County Prosecutor; William Hartley, Wabash County Prosecutor; Christopher Harvey, Adams County Prosecutor; Richard Hertel, Ripley County Prosecutor; John Sievers, Knox County Prosecutor; and Steven Stewart, Clark County Prosecutor.

The IPAC is a non-partisan, independent state judicial branch agency and was created by statute in 1973. It is made up of Indiana's 91 prosecuting attorneys and their chief deputies and governed by a 10 member Board of Directors chosen from among the state's prosecuting attorneys.

The IPAC assists prosecuting attorneys by preparing manuals, providing legal research, and conducting training seminars. It serves as a liaison to local, state, and federal agencies, study commissions, and community groups in an effort to support law enforcement and promote the fair administration of justice.
