The Indiana AIDS Memorial at Crown Hill Cemetery is a permanent memorial dedicated in October 2000 to the thousands of lives lost to the AIDS epidemic. Situated in a beautiful wooded area in the older part of the cemetery, in the northeast corner of section 90 of Crown Hill Cemetery, the memorial is surrounded by historic headstones and other artifacts that date back to the late 1800’s. It is a beautiful setting for reflection and remembrance as well as a visual reminder of the impact of the AIDS epidemic.

"Where Do We Go From Here?"

According to recent CDC statistics, more than 1.1 million people in the United States are living with HIV. Furthermore, an estimated 1 in 7 are not aware of their status.

Each year, an estimated 37,600 people become newly diagnosed with HIV. Indiana ranks 18th in the nation for newly diagnosed HIV cases. In 2016 there was an estimated 413 newly diagnosed HIV cases, and 94 newly diagnosed AIDS cases in the State of Indiana. Currently there is an estimated 12,000 people living with HIV / AIDS in Indiana, and St. Joseph and Elkhart Counties are home to 628 and 188 respectively.

As we move forward in the effort to address HIV / AIDS in our community, prevention has moved beyond abstinence and condoms to include treatment, housing, multiple testing options, mental health services, advocacy, and so much more. We know so much more which translates to our ability to do so much more.
