

This Week in Indiana History

May 10th, 1898:

The 157th Indiana Infantry is Mustered into Service for the Spanish-American War

In 1898, the United States fought a brief war with the Spanish empire over control of the Caribbean, most notably the small island to the south of Florida known as Cuba. The 157th Indiana Infantry, one of many Hoosier regiments that served in this conflict, was mustered into duty on May 10th.
