Gale Completes Lineup of AccessMyLibrary Apps

Gale recently released the College and School editions of the AccessMyLibrary (AML) Android applications, which join the AML School Edition application for the iPad that became available in early January. These latest additions complete Gale's line-up of AML applications, which make Gale library resources accessible on the go from all major mobile devices.

AML College and School Edition ask students to locate their school and then authenticate for the year. Both editions require a one-time password. College students can enter their school-issued email address to have the password sent to them, while students in grade, middle and high schools will have the password provided by their institution. Rather than sifting through internet sites that aren't always reliable, students can access credible library reference sources available via INSPIRE in seconds with AML apps.

Additionally, Quick Response (QR) codes are available for all AML apps. After downloading a QR code-scanning app, mobile phone users can scan the AML QR code with their barcode reader to be automatically taken to the Gale apps web site.

AML apps can be downloaded from the iTunes store and Android Marketplace. All AML apps are free and additional information, including QR codes, posters, bookmarks and other library marketing resources can be found at <http://www.gale.cengage.com/apps/>. If your public, school or academic library is not listed, activate it today either online or by contacting Gale Technical Support.

NetLibrary Gives Way to New Platform this Summer

The NetLibrary name/platform will soon retire as it transitions to EBSCOhost. A preview site of eBooks on EBSCOhost is now available for users who login at www.netlibrary.com. This site offers a sneak peek of the new design.

Leading up to the summer transition, EBSCO will host three eBooks on EBSCOhost workshops at multiple times and dates in the coming months, including:

- NetLibrary: eBooks & Audiobooks on EBSCO Overview
- NetLibrary: Using eBooks
- eBooks on EBSCOhost

This change will affect all NetLibrary collections purchased by your library and the Indiana Shared eBook Collection on INSPIRE. The collection's strengths include eBooks focused on popular topics and information of great use to Hoosiers. In particular, the collection offers professional development resources that offer insight into writing effective resumes, learning simple and advanced computer skills and career guidance and job effectiveness strategies. Additionally, the collection contains extensive medical and personal health holdings from topics on diet and weight loss to information of all aspects of physical and mental health.

One Week Remains to Join Gateway Trainers Project

Beginning this summer all local units of government will be required to submit their budgets online using the Indiana Gateway for Local Government Units, a web-based data reporting system. The Indiana State Library and the DLGF are partnering to offer librarians the opportunity to become Gateway Trainers and to provide leaders in their local communities with this valuable service.

If your library is interested in being a Gateway Trainer, contact Wendy Knapp by March 31 to register for the program webinar.

LSTA Grant Funds Delayed Due to Budget Uncertainties

The Indiana State Library will  Library Services & Technology Act Grants award about half of the LSTA grant funds it expected to give in 2011. Continuing uncertainties regarding the federal budget and funding for LSTA will result in the State Library funding the top half of the ranked applications for digitization and technology grant programs. These applicants will be notified of their award in the coming weeks. Once the State Library receives notification of the actual amount of LSTA funds available for 2011, additional projects in both sub-grant categories will be considered.

If you have any questions, please contact LSTA Grant Consultant Jennifer Clifton at jclifton@library.in.gov or (317) 234-6550. For more information the about Indiana LSTA grants webpage.
