

About

The Indiana Broadband and Technology Association (IBTA) is a non-profit trade association representing Indiana's Broadband and Technology industry. Our members include 40 local competitive wireline and wireless companies and over 125 companies that supply goods and services to broadband and technology companies.

IBTA membership is divided into three categories:

- Category I – broadband providers
- Category II – technology companies
- Category III – suppliers of equipment and services to member broadband and technology companies

All membership applications must be approved by the Board of Directors.

The IBTA hosts three regularly scheduled meetings throughout the year which include a Spring Meeting held in April, a Convention in June, and a December Conference in December. Additionally, the IBTA administers a trade show, the Great Lakes Technology Showcase, in cooperation with the Ohio Telecommunications Association and the Telecommunications Association of Michigan, held in late October each year. This trade show includes over 100 exhibit booths featuring the latest offerings in products and services from the telecommunications industry along with an educational program filled with industry speakers. The Great Lakes Technology Showcase draws over 600 professionals from Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, and Illinois. The IBTA also hosts seminars and conferences on various educational topics as needs or issues arise.
