	outcomes are clearly defined and consistently communicated through course syllabi, the BSN student handbook, and curriculum mapping documents. These outcomes are used to guide teaching-learning principles and are evaluated using a detailed crosswalk introduced in Standard III and supported by relevant appendices. The SEP outlines the evaluation methods and data sources used to assess these outcomes, incorporating both quantitative and qualitative data. Quantitative data includes completion rates, NCLEX licensure pass rates, employment rates, and student satisfaction metrics. These are collected through secure databases, university reports, and surveys. End of Program (EOP) surveys are administered electronically by the University (now called Final Destination Survey). This surveys assess graduates' perceptions of their achievement of BSN program outcomes, overall satisfaction, and employment status. Additionally, Course Perception Surveys (CPS) are administered at the end of each semester across all university courses. CPS results are used by faculty for self-reflection and are summarized in End of Course (EOC) reports. These reports are reviewed in faculty meetings to identify areas for improvement and are also used in annual faculty evaluations. Additional input is collected during meetings with communities of interest and annual advisory council sessions. All data is analyzed by program chairs and the Assistant Dean for Nursing and presented to faculty for review and discussion. This process ensures that data is used not only to confirm achievement of expected outcomes but also to identify opportunities for curricular improvement. The SEP is reviewed annually by the DON Evaluation Committee, which includes faculty from across the BSN and graduate programs. The committee assigns data collection responsibilities and presents findings and recommendations to the full faculty. The SEP is first reviewed in May with available data, updated over the summer, and finalized in August and September with complete data and faculty input. Once approved, the SEP is posted to the faculty-accessible M drive and the USI Nursing Resource Blackboard site.
