IPA Corner:

Do you want a role in shaping Telepsychology policy in Indiana? The Indiana Psychological Association (IPA), the largest group in Indiana representing psychologists and the people they serve, is putting together a task force to collaborate with the State Psychology Board in shaping Telepsychology policy for Indiana.

What is Telepsychology and why should I care about it?

March 2012 Edition

Telepsychology is the practice of psychology by distance communication technology including telephone, email, internet-based communication, and videoconferencing. Rules governing Telepsychology will also guide electronic collaborations between psychologists and other health care professionals, both within Indiana and across state lines. Many psychologists around the country are considering how these methods may most effectively serve their patients, especially in rural areas. New rules governing these practices have already been passed in several states, including neighboring Ohio: <http://is.gd/PQNqp5>

IPA is working to help educate Indiana psychologists about both the potential benefits and the potential pitfalls of Telepsychology practices.

1. In March, five Indiana psychologists will attend the APA State Leadership Conference in Washington D.C. to learn more about advocating for psychologists in these times of changing health care policy and to bring back information about how other states are addressing not only Telepsychology, but many other issues that are also faced by psychologists in Indiana.

2. On April 28, IPA will co-sponsor a workshop Adventures on the Electronic Frontier: Ethics and Risk Management presented by Jeffrey Younggren, Ph.D., ABPP. In addition to covering issues related to regulating Telepsychology, Dr. Younggren will address ethical and practical concerns having to do with internet and computer-based technologies. (Attendees receive 6 Category I CE's which will fulfill the ethics requirement.)
3. IPA is also forming a task force to shape the rules and legislative policy for the practice of Telepsychology in Indiana. (You do not have to be a member of IPA to participate.)

President, IPA

Happy 75th Birthday to IPA!

Amazing as it may seem, the Indiana Psychological Association (IPA) will celebrate its 75th year of activity in 2012. In order to give this milestone its due, a celebration is planned for the 2012 Fall Conference which will be held on Friday and Saturday, October 26 and 27, 2012 at the Renaissance Indianapolis North Hotel in Carmel. The hotel offers many amenities for families as well as meeting attendees and is conveniently located close to shopping and entertainment opportunities.

All psychologists and their families and staff are invited and welcome to join this celebration of the profession of psychology and those we serve. For those who may not wish to attend the educational parts of the weekend, there is an option to only attend the party.

Many special events are planned for both members and their families and guests. The keynote speaker for the conference is Dr. Katherine C. Nordal, Executive Director of the Practice Directorate of the American Psychological Association. Dr. Nordal has extensive experience in state association development and will offer insights on the future of psychology in light of health care reform.

Now for the fun side! To celebrate in style for this Diamond Jubilee year, we are planning a dinner with dancing on Friday evening. Music will be provided by Charlie's Pocket, a local group much in demand. The hotel is blocking several sleeping rooms at a very attractive rate and we do encourage party goers to take advantage of this opportunity for a truly carefree evening. If there is sufficient interest, Friday activities will be offered for families/guests that might enjoy an outing during conference hours.

SO HELP US GET THE WORD OUT!

Be sure to tell everyone you can think of in your local area, as well as old friends who may have moved away (who may not see this notice for some reason...) to indeed SAVE THE DATE and join in the fun. More information will be coming soon, and should you wish to be involved in the work that lies ahead, please contact our central office at 317-257-7449.

What's Happening in your Profession?

- The next renewal for psychologists is August 31, 2012.
- HSPP endorsed psychologists may retire their HSPP upon written notification to the board. Retirement of the HSPP eliminates the CE requirement. Licensed psychologists who do not hold the HSPP may only practice under the supervision of a HSPP psychologist.
