Indiana State Treasurer Disappointed by US Supreme Court's Decision

INDIANAPOLIS (June 9, 2009) – “I am disappointed to have learned that the U.S. Supreme Court has lifted the stay in the Chrysler bankruptcy case thereby allowing the company to be acquired by the United States government so it may distribute its assets as it directs. The future ramifications of the court’s decision on the capital markets remain to be seen. From the onset of the case, I have fought for Indiana’s retired teachers, retired state policemen, and Hoosier taxpayers. I have no regret for having done so and for having carried this case to the door step of the nation’s highest court.”
